

How to Master Anything The Chinese Way

1. GONGFU 功夫

Time and effort compound into mastery.

Show up daily,
not occasionally.

Small reps,
thousands of times.

Skill is earned time,
not talent.

2. WU WEI 无为

Effortless action — flow, don't force.

LESS FORCE = MORE FLOW

- Stop overthinking each step

- Let practiced skill move your hands

- Force less, flow more.

3. GUANXI 关系

Relationships open doors skill alone can't.

STRANGERS

ACQUAINTANCES

TRUSTED CIRCLE

New mentor.

Regular contact.

Trusted guide.

4. YIN YANG

Balance effort and rest.

Hard practice needs
deep rest.

Push and recover in equal measure.

Balance beats burnout.

5. QI 气

Manage your energy, not just your time.

Track when your focus peaks.

Protect energy like a resource.

Rest is part of the plan, not a failure.

“Energy well-spent beats hours wasted.”

6. JING JIN 精进

Refine relentlessly, never settle.

Mark the weak spot.

Study why it broke.

Refine and continue.

Practice.
Flow.
Refine.
Repeat.

SAVE THIS POST

FOLLOW @THEPLANNERHUP

→ Save for later.

